

CMA's Manifesto Press Coverage

These are links to just some of the articles concerning the CMA Manifesto.

CMA launches Telecoms Manifesto

Comms Business

"CMA (Communications Management Association) has launched its first Manifesto setting out a 5-point action plan aimed at helping the UK out of the recession. It calls upon the current and future governments to put ICT at the heart of economic recovery in order to breathe life into UK enterprise and the national economy."

For full article please visit:

http://www.cbmagazine.co.uk/News\_Article\_JS.cfm?X=0&Y=0&YearViewed=&Newsmonth=&EndDay=&NoNews=0&NewsID=7545

CMA manifesto

Computer Weekly

"CMA has a vision for the future of communications services in the public and private sectors in the UK, and how this should be achieved. The way in which a future government will promote and invest strategically in communications services beyond 2010 will be a crucial element in the policies of those political parties who wish to demonstrate their economic, social and technological competence to voters in the run up to the next General Election."

For full article please visit:

<http://www.computerweekly.com/Articles/2009/02/24/234995/cma-manifesto.htm>

CMA tells government to invest in ICT through recession

The Standard

"The UK will trail behind other advanced countries if it fails to put ICT at the heart of its economic recovery, an industry body has warned.

The rollout of high-performance and universal broadband is vital to the future of British businesses, according to the Communications Management Association (CMA)"

For full article please visit: <http://www.thestandard.com/news/2009/02/24/cma-tells-government-invest-ict-through-recession>

CMA launches Telecoms Manifesto to kick-start economic recovery

eGov Monitor

"Carolyn Kimber, CMA's chairman warned that disjointed government policies, a weak regulator and a negative, lethargic approach to local provision of infrastructure and services could leave British competitiveness, enterprise and innovation trailing behind other G8 countries."

For full article please visit: <http://www.egovmonitor.com/node/23709>

CMA: CMA launches Telecoms Manifesto to kick-start economic recovery

TMCnet.com

"Feb 24, 2009 (M2 PRESSWIRE via COMTEX) -- CMA (Communications Management Association) has launched its first Manifesto setting out a 5-point action plan aimed at helping the UK out of the recession. It calls upon the current and future governments to put ICT at the heart of economic recovery in order to breathe life into UK enterprise and the national economy."

For full article please visit: <http://www.tmcnet.com/submit/2009/02/24/4010360.htm>